CERVELLO – WIN WITH DATA

Cervello helps progressive organizations win with data. Our prescriptive, agile, and experienced consultants help your teams get usable information easier and faster enabling them to make better more timely decisions. We connect your people with your data so that you can obtain the right insights needed to inform your business strategy.

Whether your teams are wading through endless Excel spreadsheets to plan your business results, are mired in masses of unorganized data, are at a loss with analytics, or are struggling to make Salesforce work for them, we can help. When you partner with Cervello, you get a proven team of professionals with a deep understanding of technology and business. Using an agile approach, our teams identify your problem, recommend a solution, and implement the necessary technology so that your business realizes a faster time to value. We will build your team's knowledge, empowering them to be more strategic, profiting both your human capital and your bottom line.

Cervello's core services include advisory and consulting, solution implementation, data management, cloud integration, custom application development and managed services. We are organized into three practices dedicated to meet your specific needs.
